Jordan Empson studied her law degree at the University of Essex, graduating in 2019, achieving an upper second-class honours degree. Whilst working as a private client paralegal in a local firm in Essex, she continued her studies with BPP Law School. She attained a Merit in a Masters in Law and Legal Practice Course.

Jordan subsequently joined Paul Robinson Solicitors LLP, a Legal 500 Firm, to complete her two-year training contract. She trained in Private Client, Residential Property and Dispute Resolution, including Contentious Probate. Jordan qualified as a solicitor in February 2024 in Private Client.

Jordan gained experience in intestate estates including working alongside genealogists to locate long lost family members. Working in London, she assisted clients who were based overseas and she has administered estates which included multi-jurisdictional assets.

Jordan has volunteered in the local community by attending various workshops and visited local schools to advise the students on their journey to become a solicitor.

Jordan is committed to provide clear, compassionate, and practical advice to clients during which is often a difficult time in their lives.

Jordan joined Pinney Talfourd in 2025 as a Private Client Solicitor.
